

The Path to Wellness

Perinatal Mood & Anxiety Disorders

*You are not alone
you are not to blame
with help, you will be well*

CHANGES YOU CAN MAKE AT HOME

1. MAKE TIME FOR YOURSELF Being a good mother means taking care of yourself

- Get out of the house and do something you enjoy
- Have your partner or friend watch the baby so you can get a break
- Put the baby in a safe place, like the crib, and take 5 minutes for yourself
- Listen to music you enjoy. Postpartum support International has a premade Spotify playlist specifically for moms: www.postpartumprogress.org/warrior-moms-playlist

2. REMEMBER TO EAT Keep your energy up by eating healthy foods

- Keep snacks near where you feed the baby so you can eat too
- Try to eat healthy snacks like nuts, dried fruit, and energy bars
- Drink lots of water to stay hydrated
- If you need helping getting food, ask your doctor about WIC

3. STAY ACTIVE Physical activity can help improve your mood

- Try to get outside at least once a day; even light exercise or walking can help

4. GET SLEEP It is important (but difficult) to get rest when you have a new baby

- If you can, try to nap when the baby naps
- If you're breastfeeding, you may need to sleep in 2-3 hour blocks of time with a goal of 7-9 hours total in a 24 hour period
- If you're feeling depressed or anxious, you may need to find a way to get 5-6 hours of continuous sleep
- Ask a trusted friend or family member to help out if you need a little extra rest

5. STAY CONNECTED No one expects you to do it on your own

- Don't be afraid to ask for help
- Have a to-do list ready for when friends ask how they can help you
- Connect with community organizations or support groups in your neighborhood

Sometimes self-care techniques are not enough to help you feel better, and that's okay. There are specialists that provide therapies and medications to help you feel like yourself again. Talk to your primary care doctor, your child's pediatrician, or your OBGYN for more treatment options that are right for you.

TIPS

Have REALISTIC expectations about motherhood

My Maternal Well-Being Plan

PLAN AHEAD

My best place for relaxing that I can get to easily is: _____

Healthy, easy foods I like to eat are: _____

One place I can go to get healthy foods (ex. grocery store, WIC, food bank, church): _____

People I can ask for help when I need it:

1. _____ 2. _____

Ways I like to exercise or connect with other people, which I could do with a small baby:

1. _____ 2. _____

Songs I like to listen to are:

1. _____ 2. _____

Three activities that take less than 15 minutes that I can try to do everyday (ex. reading, deep breathing, walking):

1. _____ 2. _____ 3. _____

JUST IN CASE

Having a new baby is a big change.

There are resources to help people figure out how to adjust. You can find help to keep you and your baby healthy, both mentally and physically. If it's not going well, it's good to recognize that and get help.

My early signs that I am feeling bad, depressed, or too anxious:

It can be difficult to talk about not doing well. If you feel like this, who are 3 people you would talk with?

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

What will you say?
